Dear Madam:

Your half-dollar of 1825 with the engraved back showing it was presented by General Jackson to William H. Sloan is rather interesting. You would get very little for it numismatically, as it is not now a coin; it should, however, have some slight value historically. Just how much I can not say.

Your other two half-dollars have no premium. I am sending your letter on to some one who might possibly be interested.

Very truly yours,

Curator
